the market, include the Chamber of Commerce. It was suggested yesterday by several men who are deeply interested, and who are willing to put up a large part of the money needed for the purpose, that the aid of Richmond's leading commercial organization be enlisted in the cause on the principle that Richmond in the Eastern League is a positive, effectual and lasting advertising medium.

Approximately fifty men were visited yesterday in the interest of the movement. The facts in the case were pointed out plainly and without any attempt to prove that a tranchise in the Eastern League would prove a modern Golconda, or that a rich harvest of dollars would be reaped immediately. It was pointed out that the cost on maintaining a ball club in the Eastern League would be considerably greater than it is to conduct the Richmond team in the V'rginia League. It was shown that railroad jumps would be great, and they ware by no means picked men—each was willing to sub Eastern League. The smallest amount was $250 and the largest $1,000. Just as soon as other plans mature the list of the names of those who are willing to back Richmond against even the opinions of some who happen to voice the sentiments of the present interests, will be printed.

One very prominent business man, whose word is his bond, stated emphatically that he was willing to assum the responsibility of raising the sum. He knew that it was only a chance that Richmond could secure the franchise. He knew also, as does every one else, that should Baltimore go into the big league, there would be an Eastern League franchise on the market. But he siso knows that such a franchise is valuable, and he is enough of a business man to believe Upperville, Va., June 14.—The first day of Upperville Horse Show to-day showed about the usual attendance. The grandstand boxes were filled with prominent horse people, while the high prominent horse fesh from the sreat, heavy draft to the graceful thoroughbed, which held sway in the ring, measured fully up to the standard of former years. Probably there were not so many of the professional ring performers in evidence as in several years, again demonstrating that this is prominently the farmers' show. The list of prize-winners:

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
Petersburg, Va., June 14.—Lynchburg defeated Petersburg this evening in a game remarkable for the execrable work of Umpire Crawley. It was the general comment of the fans after the game that the league managers should provide more competent judges of baseball to preside over the games played by the cluss of teams which make up the Virgina League. Lynchburg was entitled to the game on the general play, but the entire spirit of the teams, as well as that of the fans, was taken away by the rulings of the Walsh Issues Several Passes in Eighth, Which Lose Game for Tars.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Danville, Va., June 14.—Denville made it three straight from the would-be champions here this afternoon, winning out in the eighth inning, 7 to 6, when Martin Walsh became nervous and gave several passes, together with hits, which netted three runs for the locals, which netted three runs for the locals, and twirled eight innings, when he was replaced by Grimin in order to take no chances. Walsh, the former Red Sox, pitched for the visitors, and was effective save in two linnings.

Neither side scored in the first, but Norfolk made three in the second. Danville took the lead in the fourth, when four Bugs crawled across the rubber. Norfolk added two more in the fifth as the result of miscue, and another in the sixth, when Walsh parked the ball. In the eighth, with two runs to the good, the fans' terrific rooting seemed to rattle Walsh, and three runs were the result.

The features of the game were Kaufman's beautiful catch, when he almost fell through centre field fence, and the homer by Walsh. The largest crowd of the season was present. The score:

One of the largest crowds outside of those attending league games was on hand to see the trick turned. Hinchman was on the slab for the Colegians, and he kept the redskins from connecting with him in very satisfactory style. The score was tied up in the ninth but Sitterding, fresh from Georgetown University, was the lad who was responsible for the score which counted in the tenth.

The game was played in fast time, and was snappy from start to mish. Some clever ball pisying was displayed, and more of such games would be warmly received by local fandom. Both teams deserve credit for the exhibition given.
